Dear Law School Community,

Today is Veteran's Day and as you go about the routine business of your day, I hope you will take a few minutes to reflect on our veterans and their service to our nation. As we have learned so often throughout our history, freedom isn't free. It requires vigilance and, all too often, sacrifice. At military funerals, a precisely folded flag is presented to the next of kin on behalf of "a grateful nation," but we need not wait until funerals to express gratitude to our veterans.

I'm proud today to honor the veterans among us who have made great sacrifices to defend and uphold our freedoms. Thank you to the students, faculty, staff, and alumni who have served our country with distinction.

Sincerely,

Dean Perdue
