Wrongful Convictions Clinic:

Students who take the Wrongful Convictions Seminar in the fall have priority enrollment for the eight positions available in the Wrongful Convictions Clinic in the spring. If more than eight students from the seminar are interested in the Clinic, the director will select the eight students for participation. If fewer than eight students from the seminar are interested, the clinic will be open to other students who seek permission from the Director. Non-seminar students need to apply and be interviewed to enroll. In either case, the clinic is capped at eight students. For administrative clarity, all interested students should fill out an application form.
