Dear Friends,

Our goal at the University of Richmond School of Law is to prepare students to flourish in all aspects of their professional lives. That means equipping our students with the core knowledge every lawyer needs, while instilling an innovative mindset to help each individual navigate to their best future.

We can’t reach that goal without the support of friends and alumni like you. You support our students in ways too numerous to count. This report is a small way for us to say “thank you” — and to celebrate our shared good news!

In the pages that follow, you’ll learn a lot about our thriving community: from pro bono outreach to student achievements, from curricular developments to international faculty impact. I hope you enjoy this glimpse at law school life — and this celebration of our shared accomplishments.

With gratitude,

Wendy C. Perdue
Dean and Professor of Law

Legal Innovation in Action

The legal industry is growing and changing in multi-dimensional ways: It’s a sentiment we hear time and time again in our outreach to alumni. Our goal at the University of Richmond School of Law is to prepare our students to navigate this rapidly changing sector.

Richmond Law’s new partnership with the Institute for the Future of Law Practice allows students to participate in a three-week, hands-on bootcamp covering disciplines that complement a traditional law school curriculum — such as business operations, project management, and technology. Next, they take those tools out on the job in paid, 10-week internships across the country. Recent placements include DHL Supply Chain in Columbus, Ohio, the financial technology company WealthForge in Richmond, and three national law firms: Bryan Cave Leighton Paisner, Thompson Hine, and Hermes Law.

“As one of the first schools selected to take part in this program, we’re excited to give our students the opportunity to develop these crucial skill sets,” said Jessica Erickson, Professor of Law and Associate Dean for Faculty Development.

Inside the building, focus is turning to developing a new program that will complement this initiative. The Program for Legal Innovation and Entrepreneurship will meld a shared first-year experience with curricular and co-curricular offerings in such areas as project management, data analytics, delivery of legal services, and design thinking. “Our goal is to develop in our students a mindset that’s both creative and entrepreneurial,” said Roger Skalbeck, Associate Dean for Library and Information Services.
Rising to the Challenge

YOU ROSE TO THE CHALLENGE WITH TWO MATCHING GRANT OPPORTUNITIES THIS YEAR!

Dean Wendy Perdue joined with Michael Glasser and Henry Jones of the Class of 1978 to issue a matching challenge of $50,000 for new and increased gifts. After many alumni and friends showed their support, the challengers upped the ante, increasing the matching pool to $70,000! The heightened goal was then not only met but exceeded, raising a total of $113,330 in new and increased funds from 291 donors to support our students.

A second outpouring of support came thanks to the challenge from Rick Klau, L'96, who pledged $100,000 in matching funds to establish the Michelle Rahman Endowed Scholarship Fund to honor the former Associate Dean of Admissions. Together, 173 alumni and friends met this challenge, raising $212,378 total to increase access and affordability at the Law School while honoring Michelle Rahman.

We’re grateful for the generosity of alumni and friends to support Richmond Law students!

A NUMBER WE’RE PROUD OF:

43%

Did you know that 43% of the Class of 2019 tried a case or argued a motion in court before graduation? Armed with their Third-Year Practice Certificates, these students represented real clients, learned from practicing attorneys, and jumpstarted their legal careers. Many thanks to alumni and friends, like you, who mentor, hire, and support our students in this endeavor.

Looking Up in the Down Under

After this summer’s latest renovation, the lower level of the Law School — popularly known as the Down Under — features a new look and purpose. In addition to an updated lounge space and new study room, the space will now also house all three student-run journals — offering plenty of opportunity for collaboration. This new space will be a hub of student-centered life.
JOIN US IN WELCOMING THREE NEW FACULTY MEMBERS WHO BRING EXCEPTIONAL EXPERIENCE AND SCHOLARLY ACOMPLISHMENT TO RICHMOND LAW. WE’RE PROUD TO INTRODUCE YOU TO REBECCA CROOTOF, LINDA LIN, AND FALLON SPEAKER.

Rebecca Crootof
Assistant Professor of Law

Professor Rebecca Crootof comes to Richmond Law from Yale Law School, where she served as the Executive Director of the Information Society Project. An expert in international law as well as the intersection of technology and the law, she earned her Ph.D. in Law and her J.D. from Yale, and her B.A. from Pomona College.

Da Lin
Assistant Professor of Law

Professor Da Lin, an expert in corporate and securities law, will join the Richmond Law faculty after serving as a Climenko Fellow and Lecturer on Law at Harvard Law School. She earned her J.D. at Harvard Law, and her bachelor’s and master’s degrees in applied mathematics at Harvard University.

Fallon Speaker
Director of the Jeanette Loman Legal Clinic for Families and Children

Professor Fallon Speaker joins Richmond Law after serving as an attorney and team leader for the Bronx Defenders in New York for six years. She was also an Adjunct Professor for the Mainzer Family Defense Clinic at Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law. She earned her J.D. and B.A. from the University of North Carolina.

INTERNATIONAL

Our faculty are known for the individualized attention they deliver in the classroom. But you’ll find them making an impact on a much wider stage, too. Take Professor Chiara Giorgetti, for example. This year, she delivered two virtual training videos to the United Nations Audiovisual Library of International Law. She also presented at the 10th International Conference on the New Haven School of Jurisprudence in Hangzhou, China, and participated in the meeting of the Committee on the Procedure of International Courts and Tribunals of International Law at the Max Planck Institute in Luxembourg. Professor Jim Gibson delivered a series of talks in China and South Korea on the topic of intellectual property law, while Professor Andy Spalding helped build an anti-corruption curriculum for the Jigme Singye Wangchuck School of Law — the only law school in Bhutan.

In the building and around the globe, our faculty give us good reason to show some Spider Pride!

LOCAL COMMUNITY

Thanks to the leadership of Andy Nea, L’66, and the support of over 100 attorneys, the Pro Bono Estate Planning program has served almost 600 clients through about 30 clinics each year across Virginia since its inception in 2007. The key to the program is its simplicity: Nea partners with community organizations that serve populations in need. Prospective clients fill out an easy questionnaire, then meet with a pro bono attorney and volunteer law student. An hour later, they leave with a will, a power of attorney document, and an advanced medical directive.

Supporting those attorneys and clients along the way are law students who gain real skills and experience. “It allows the law student to see a case from start to finish, to actually interact with a real person, and to produce real documents and see the end of it,” said Nea. Plus, “it’s a good thing for them to have a real taste of the real world.”
1. Students and alumni enjoy networking at our first reception for Virginia judges, clerks, and former clerks, hosted by the Career Development Office. 2. Richmond Law continues the tradition of inviting alumni to award diplomas to graduating law students — like Victor Shaheen, L’80, whose leadership commitments of $2,500 or more provided strong financial support for Richmond Law in Fiscal Year 2019. Pledges are recognized for their full value in the year they are made.

Our Honor Roll

Our Honor Roll

1. Students and alumni enjoy networking at our first reception for Virginia judges, clerks, and former clerks, hosted by the Career Development Office.
2. Richmond Law continues the tradition of inviting alumni to award diplomas to graduating law students — like Victor Shaheen, L’80, who celebrates commencement with his son Victor Shaheen Jr., L’19. Sons Faiz, L’21, and Blaise, L’22, are current students.
3. Almost 50 students interned with courts and judges across the country this summer — including the nine students pictured here at the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Virginia. Summer Public Service Fellowships — funded by the generosity of alumni and friends — make many of these experiences possible. The 2023-2024 fall semester faculty-student kickball game brought together the entire Law School community for some friendly competition (and a resounding win for the students). This year’s Junior Faculty Forum brought 60 professors from across the country to Richmond Law to share scholarship and network.

It is an honor and a privilege for me to be in a position to give back to Richmond Law, as I would not be where I am today were it not for the generosity of the Law School and other alums to me while I was a student. During my 2L and 3L years, it was what I needed to complete my law school education without much anxiety. I enthusiastically look forward to continuing my support for Richmond Law in any way that I can.”
